Why vacation in a Health Resort? The custom of combining a vacation with a program to improve health is far from new. From the ancient Romans onward through centuries, generation after generation have followed this practice. The spa resort environment is designed to relax, refresh and recharge the body and spirit. Under the direction of the spa physicians, an individualized therapy plan is developed. The treatment begins with relaxation therapy, including a warm bath, body massages and mud packs. After that, exercise - either passive or active - is introduced. At each stage, patients get psychological support. There are also discussions focusing on nutrition and beneficial effects of a customized dietary plan. After only a week of therapy, you will notice positive changes in your body. To achieve maximum results from your spa vacation, the recommended length of stay is three weeks. By the end of the third week, you will be completely revitalized and rejuvenated. Hungary is very rich in healing thermal waters. About half a million cubic meters of thermal water rushes up everyday from natural springs and drilled wells throughout the country.

Medicinal waters are used in two basic ways...

First - for bathing - and second - as a curing drink. Bathing for medical purposes has a millennial past in Europe. Bathing had various functions among ancient people. Hippocrates examined the utilization of medicinal waters for treatment. Several of these conclusions are still valid today. A new prospering era of balneology - the science of medicinal waters - together with hydrotherapy - or water cure - started in the 19th century. The aspects of hydrotherapy have changed significantly during the last few decades. Today's treatments are not restricted to use medicinal waters only. A contemporary "spa physician" is a rheumatologist, internist or gynecologist with a wide range of knowledge. A complex therapy including the use of medicinal waters, physical exercise, massages, electro-therapy and a diet plan shows better and quicker results. The Romans were the first to build baths on the territory of today's Hungary, 2,000 years ago. Eleven baths have been excavated in the northern part of Budapest, that were left behind by the Romans. Budapest is known as the "Spa Capital of the World". There are over 100 medicinal water springs in Budapest alone. After the daily treatments, patients may enjoy all the advantages of a great European city: theater, sightseeing, excursions, museums and shopping. Numerous metropolitan spa hotels were built in the last decade to cater to the needs of international and Hungarian clientele. In these contemporary hotels, basic balneotherapy and complete spa therapy are available together with beauty treatments and diet plans. The countryside Spa Resorts, such as Hévíz and Bük are located in the most picturesque region of Hungary. Basic balneotherapy and the highly efficient complete spa therapy is available in a serene countryside setting. After treatments, enjoy the scenery, the great outdoors and get acquainted with the neighboring historical small towns, castles and villages. You may visit Sopron or Kőszeg with their intact medieval city centers or the magnificent Eszterhazy Castle in Fertőd - often referred to as the Hungarian Versailles.

In Piestany in Slovakia, comprehensive treatment plans are offered in beautiful surroundings. Choose a hotel according to your budget and enjoy your stay in a true spa environment. In Mariánske Lazne in the Czech Republic, in general, treatments are recommended to heal locomotive apparatus diseases and certain organic neural diseases - like rheumatoid arthritis. One, two and three week packages are available with a great variety of treatment options.
